The IAS/IFRS Standards

IAS/IFRS Standards have become the daily of all, or will become in the future.

How to apply these new standards without making errors and controlling them?

In order to help the companies, this book adopts a step of simplification of the contents of the standard, with a systematic treatment of each standard in the numerical order. It is focused towards the practice day work, as well as the analysis of specific cases. The presentation of each standard is made in summarized form and is accompanied by examples.

The committee IAS / IFRS our Group has worked in recent months to update the first book published in 2006. All standards treated take into account all the changes since January 1st, 2013. This book is published at the author's, bilingual French-English.
